Grandma and Chocolate, the perfect support team

Why is Grandma and Her Chocolate Labrador an attractive marketing opportunity for organizations?

This book highlights the special bonds of pet companionship while engendering empathy for the elderly. It also cultivates the continuity between the generations in a period of fluctuating geographies, where many families no longer live in close proximity to one another.

Why will this book appeal to your employees and customers?

Grandma's inner life is shared with readers. It's fun to see Grandma in her "secret life" while the grandkids are gone. This gentle story speaks to the sweetness of nostalgia and friendship at any age, especially with the love and companionship of a faithful pet.

Which organizations would be most interested in this book as a marketing opportunity?

Pharmaceutical companies, nursing homes, and retirement facilities as well as physician offices are logical outlets for this book. Grandma and Her Chocolate Labrador would be exceptional as a promotional item or for use in social media.

Delight your clients with Grandma and Chocolate!

Grandma and her Chocolate Labrador

P. J. FISCHER

When her family moves away, grandmother misses the wonderful old times. With the spark of a quick trip to the attic, grandma rekindles some of the fun of her own childhood. But something is still missing . . . something loyal and lovable. How will grandma bring the best times of her life together and create some new ones? The perfect book for generations to read together, Grandma and her Chocolate Labrador shows just how much we have in common at every age, and how learning, loving, and growing never cease.

“Grandma and her Chocolate Labrador is an inspiring intergenerational story that explores the meaning of loneliness and the need for ongoing connection and friends at all ages. Grandma is a sweet lady whose family and grandchildren move away from her home town, leaving her time and space to fill with other memories. Grandma turns to her photo albums of her childhood to remember some of the things she used to enjoy as a child. Gradually she rediscovers ways to cheer herself, finding a new pet fish, old toys to treasure and play with, and best of all, a new chocolate Labrador puppy brought to her by a neighbor boy. Things continue, and Grandma and Chocolate become best friends and companions to each other. Her family and grandchildren visit, and of course, they are growing up. Grandma is happy to have her new lifelong companion, Chocolate, her best friend. Tender paintings of Grandma and her pets and family hold the intimacy and warmth of the story, slightly enhanced by the memory of emptiness. Grandma and her Chocolate Labrador is a heart-warming experience for children of all ages to share.”

P. J. FISCHER: GROUNDED IN THE PAST, LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

P. J. FISCHER was the little kid who lived around the corner from his grandmother. He used to bike over and stay a while! Back then, the author's dog was named Mustard. His family was one big smash up of eight kids, parents, grandparents, relatives, dogs, chickens, and rabbits. Remembering those times, Fischer created Grandma and her Chocolate Labrador.

PERFECT GIFT FOR

Families, labrador lovers
